

I'd like to start by giving a huge thank you to Linda and CJ for all the work they've done to build our website. I volunteered to be the liaison for this committee because I've been a web developer for 20 years (which is about as long as there have been websites). During that time I've built websites for several organizations, including a large federally funded health study and some divisions of the American Psychological association, so I have some idea how hard it is to start a website from scratch for an organization.

Now that the first goal for DBR's site has been met, which is to have one, I'd like to spend the first part of this transitional period evaluating its structure and function, and talking to other members of the committee to decide how this website can best serve the park going forward.

When that evaluation is complete we'll be looking assemble a team to take over the various roles involved in its ongoing maintenance.
